

Institute Starts Today for the Business Men of City

THURSDAY AND FRIDAY MEETS WILL BE HELD

Dallas Chamber Sends a National Authority on Business

EMPLOYEES INVITED

Free Business School Will Attract Canyon Men Two Days

This afternoon at 2:30 o'clock the first meeting of the Merchants' Institute will be held at the district court room. The meetings will continue through Friday night, with meetings in the afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, at 7:15 and at 8:15. Different subjects will be discussed at each of the six meetings held.

The institute is held for the benefit of the merchants and employees of the city. Every business man will find subjects of intense interest to him discussed during the series of meetings.

H. W. Stanley of Dallas is being sent to Canyon by the Dallas Chamber of Commerce for the purpose of improving local conditions, and assisting the business men with their problems.

Mr. Stanley is nationally known as a merchandising expert, knowing the problems of the small town, and presenting questions which are of great interest to all business men of the small towns in a most interesting and profitable manner.

During his stay in Canyon his services are offered free to any business house which may have peculiar problems on which they wish to have advice.

Arrangements for these interviews may be made thru Fred E. Wortham, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

The following subjects will be discussed during the institute:

The Merchandising Outlook.

Plan, Media and Advertising Appropriation.

Salesmanship, the Keystone in the Arch of Business.

Advertising Copy.

Turnover, the Pulse of Profits.

What Do Customers Buy?

There will be a question box conducted after each lecture by Mr. Stanley.

CLYDE JOHNSTON BROUGHT HOME FROM HOSPITAL

Clyde Johnston was brought home Friday from the hospital in Amarillo where he was taken following a wreck in which he received a fracture of the skull. He is recovering very nicely.

Gordon Rice, who was with him in the wreck, was taken to the home of his sister in Stratford and is said to be doing well. One arm was broken in three places.

Mrs. Elmer Prichard and son of Canadian spent Thursday at the Ed Phillips home.

Saved Money by Buying From a Home Concern

As a result of getting prices from The Canyon News, Randall County made a considerable saving on the delinquent tax record books for the clerk's office. The work was let by competitive bid, and The News was the lowest.

Too many public officials and business men send their printing away from Canyon without asking what may be produced from home concerns.

Whether it be printing, or any other class of merchandise, Canyon firms have a right to enter bids on all public work—for the county, the city and the schools. Being taxpayers, local people should receive every consideration—not at exorbitant prices, but at competitive prices. It is the taxes paid by local firms and people which are supporting the local governments, and where there are purchases to be made, local people should be the first to be consulted.

Lectures Two Days

H. W. STANLEY

Merchandise expert from the Dallas Chamber of Commerce, who will lecture six times, starting this afternoon to the business people of Canyon.

$7.50 Asked by County to Assist in Relief Work

The citizens committee of Canyon has asked for $750 from the federal government to assist with relief work in this county until the first of January. Application was filed Thursday by Wallace R. Clark, Judge S. B. Orton and T. C. Thompson with the West Texas Chamber of Commerce officials, who were appointed by Governor Sterling to pass upon applications from this territory. The Governor must approve all applications for loans before the federal government will take action.

The strictest supervision is made of the relief fund in order that only those in actual distress may procure any of the fund. The fund is to supplement county funds which are appropriated to take care of the local distress cases.

Orton Irons Kinks Out of Questionnaire on Highway Bonds

County Judge S. B. Orton stated yesterday that about all of the kinks in connection with the highway bond issues of Randall county had been ironed out, and would be in the hands of the state officials by October 17th, the final date for filing. All counties of the state which have issued highway bonds will have their reports in by that time, and it is then expected that auditors will visit each county checking the details of expenditures claimed in these questionnaires.

As a result of the state taking over these bond issues, Randall county's tax rate was reduced 40 cents on the $100 valuation.

ELECTION OVER FOR DEMOS. STATED R. TACK

No Chance for G. O. P. to Win General Election

PRAISES ROOSEVELT

People Tired of Republican Promises to Nation

"It's all over but the voting," stated Gene Howe, The Tactless Texan of the Amarillo News-Globe Saturday night at the gathering of Democrats held at the district court room. "This is not going to be an election, we are just going to kick the bunch out," continued Col. Tack. He referred to the elections in Texas this year and the way the voters had been cleaning house. "Discretion was not used in all cases," stated the speaker, "but this was the year to throw those out who were in."

The need of a real dirt farmer was emphasized by Mr. Howe. The farmers are getting a raw deal under the Republican administration, and no one can make money so long as present policies are continued. He pointed out the fact Hoover was not equipped for the job he holds. He was not a great engineer, but only a good promoter. He was not acquainted with the needs of America.

"Al Smith is the greatest man in America today," stated Mr. Howe. "It's fine that Smith and Roosevelt have made up, so that Smith will be associated with the man in the White House for the next eight years."

Mr. Howe related his recent trip to the east and the value placed upon Hoover and Roosevelt by leading newspaper men. They are not particularly for Roosevelt, but they are all against Hoover. Under Hoover, government employees have increased from 600,000 to 750,000. A ten million dollar building for the nine members of the Supreme Court has just been completed. The biggest building in the world is under construction to house the department of agriculture. The Hoover administration does nothing except help the big man.

Following his usual custom, Mr. Howe asked the audience to endorse him for postmaster of Amarillo under the Democratic administration, which was done by a rising vote.

Fred Young, Amarillo attorney, made a short talk, urging that all of the voters go to the polls on November 8th. He predicted that Randall county would go almost solid for the Roosevelt-Garner ticket. The Republican party is squeezing out the little fellow, completing mergers for the benefit of the big fellows. This has caused 11 million people to be unemployed in the United States today. 67,000 bankruptcies, 1497 bank failures with 2 billion dollars lost, empty business houses and homes, foreclosures on farms in untold numbers, have been the result of the Republican administration.

The Democratic party offers the only chance to get rid of Mellon, Dawes and their kind, stated Mr. Young.

Dan McGrath of Amarillo also made a short talk.

Fred E. Wortham, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, presided at the meeting.

Geo. Schneider was in Amarillo Saturday.

RANDALL 4TH AT DALLAS

$50,000 Tax Bill is Saved In the County

Tax Rolls for 1932 Ready and Show Decrease From 1931

Randall county taxpayers will have $50,000 less in tax bills for the County and State than was on the tax rolls last year, according to the taxrolls for 1932 which are being completed by Burney Slack, tax assessor, and will be turned over to John Fry, tax collector, this week.

Last year the total property tax for Randall county amounted to $173,869.24, which has been reduced this year to $122,928.18.

The following is a list of comparisons between the tax rolls of the county for 1931 and 1932, which show the reductions that have taken place as to values and assessments:

	1932	1931
Land values	$3,120,670	$3,479,460
City property	1,738,030	1,865,229
Personal prop.	777,650	1,074,750
Railroads	804,803	855,714
Tele., telegraph	45,020	53,820
Pipe lines	145,550	147,700
State taxes	46,064	55,570
County taxes	50,069	58,611
Dist. schools	26,794	29,697
Total taxes	122,928	173,869
State poll	4,008	3,910
County poll	665	651

The reduction of values in the county to $6,532,723 this year automatically reduces the pay of the county commissioners from a flat rate of $100 per month to the former pay of $5 per day with the limit of $1,000 per year. Values were reduced by the county commissioners on an average of 10 per cent, with the knowledge that their salaries would be reduced by this action. The assumption of the highway bonds by the state makes possible a very material reduction in the county taxes.

432 Shares Power Stock Has Been Reported to Date

Stockholders in the American Commonwealth Power Corporation in Canyon have reported holding 432 shares up to yesterday. It is thought that other citizens hold shares which have not been reported.

In conferring with Clyde W. Warwick Saturday night, Gene Howe of the Amarillo Globe-News stated that fire would be put under the company to repay the consumer-owners of shares just as soon as all of the owners would report.

Mr. Howe urged that every share owner report at once in order that something might be started.

EXHIBIT STATE FAIR WINNER OF A HIGH PLACE

Only Eight Points Below Winning Exhibit at State Fair

HARTLEY IS FIRST

Good Showing With Same Exhibit Shown at Tri-State Fair

Randall County placed fourth in the agricultural exhibits of the Dallas State Fair, according to a message received yesterday from County Agent W. H. Upchurch. Mr. and Mrs. Upchurch left last week with the exhibit for Dallas.

Hartley county won first place with a score of 944. Gonzales county was second and Ellis county was third. Randall county's score was 936, there being only 8 points difference between first and fourth places. In decoration and arrangement the Randall county exhibit topped the entire fair. No other Panhandle counties were among the 10 high winners at the fair this year. Following Randall were the following in order of winnings: Grayson, Lamar, Hunt, Eastland, Harrison, Fannin, Hemphill, Wheeler, Henderson, Red River, Anderson, Roberts, Hardeman, Ochiltree, Victoria, Panola, Haskell, Marion, Gregg, Upshur, Rusk, Cooke and Van Zandt counties.

Randall placed second at Dallas last year and first in 1930. First place was missed last year by only eight-tenths of a point.

Mr. Upchurch is highly pleased with the winning this year. Owing to the heavy rains following the Tri-State Fair, where he won first place, he was unable to renew his exhibit with fresh agricultural products. According to information from Dallas the county competition this year was the hardest in recent years.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE TO HOLD CELEBRATION

Meeting in regular monthly session the Chamber of Commerce directors Tuesday night set two dates for future activities. November 28 was set as the date for annual election of officers and directors.

November 11 was the date decided upon as the time for holding another chuck wagon feed similar to the one held last year, at which time the 25th anniversary of the city was celebrated.

The resignation of Ray V. Davis as a director and vice-president was accepted by a unanimous vote of the directors, and resolutions adopted expressing appreciation for his work with the organization.

Advertising Slicker Peeved at Merchants

A traveling "advertising" grafter hit Canyon Thursday, and being informed that the Chamber of Commerce had a secret committee to pass upon all such schemes, left at once.

"No use trying to work a town when the merchants are silly enough to pay any attention to such things," stated the woman, who proposed to print 50 cards, which would cost her about $5.00, on which she would sell "advertising (?) spaces" which would cost the merchants about $50.

Canyon business people have contributed hundreds of dollars annually in the past to such schemes. No one profits from these schemes except the printer who gets a little printing at from $5.00 to $10.00, and the grafter who cleans up $15 to $50 for a few hours' work.

Unless these solicitors can show you an endorsement from the secret advertising committee of the Chamber of Commerce, you can be assured that their scheme has no merit, and devised only for the purpose of extracting money from the merchant.

CONDITIONS 75 YEARS AGO.

Today the world is of the opinion that never before were conditions so hard as they are now. We have the idea that everything has just about gone on the rocks. Yet 75 years ago we find that conditions were practically the same as they are today. Here is what Harper's Weekly of October 10, 1857, had to say about conditions of that time:

"It is a gloomy moment in history. Not for many years—not in the lifetime of most men who read this paper—has there been so much grave and deep appreciation; never has the future seemed so incalculable as at this time. In our own country there is universal, commercial prostitution and panic, and thousands of our poorest fellow-citizens are turned out against the approaching winter without employment, and without the prospect of it.

"In France the political caldron seethes and bubbles with uncertainty; Russia hangs as usual, like a cloud, dark and silent upon the horizon of Europe; while all the energies, resources and influences of the British Empire are sorely tried, and are yet to be tried more sorely, in coping with the vast and deadly Indian insurrection, and with its disturbed relations in China.

"It is a solemn moment, and no man can feel an indifference—(which, happily, no man pretends to feel)—in the issue of events.

"Of our own troubles no man can see the end. They are, fortunately, as yet mainly commercial, and if we are only to lose money, and by painful poverty to be taught wisdom—the wisdom of honor, of faith, of sympathy and of charity—no man need seriously despair. And yet the very haste to be rich, which is the occasion of this widespread calamity, has also tended to destroy the moral forces with which we are to resist and subdue the calamity.

"Good friends! Let our conduct prove that the call comes to men who have large hearts, however narrowed their homes may be; who have open hands, however empty their purses. In times of peril we have nothing but manhood, strong in its faith in God, to rely upon; and whoever shows himself truly a God-fearing man now, by helping whenever and however he can, will be as blessed and beloved as a great light in darkness."

"Texas Hoovercrats are getting a great deal of satisfaction out of the utterances of Franklin D. Roosevelt in his appeal to the Republicans for support in the November election. So far as the News is concerned, we have always resented the brass-collar attitude assumed in Texas by the Democratic party to vote for "a yellow dog" if he happened to receive the nomination. If every political party in every state in the union should assume the same attitude, the Democrats would never again elect a president, and would never again control congress. Texas says that the voter must support the nominee, regardless of who it happens to be. Other states allow the voter a free choice when he goes to the polls in the general election. If the Democratic party wins in November it will be because the Republicans are dissatisfied with Hoover and will leave their party in sufficient number to support Roosevelt. Texas Democracy is tooling it up for the Roosevelt-Garner ticket, saying that Texas Democrats must always stay by the party's nominee, yet at the same time urging Republicans in other states to leave their party and vote the Democratic ticket this year. Consistency!

Flowers for the living. Marvin Jones has made a record as congressman for this district of which all the voters are very proud. He has consistently opposed increasing the cost of government, and has fought to reduce appropriations so that taxes could be reduced. He has been one of the minority to realize that the cost of government must be reduced before prosperity may return. He proposed to start with the salaries of congressmen, which the congress voted upon themselves without much excuse for the increase except that it felt good for the members to have more money to spend. He has placed none of his family on the government payroll, as has been the custom of so many members of congress. He opposed the increase of postal rates, tax on bank checks, and other nuisance taxes, believing that congress should reduce costs rather than increase taxes. Furthermore he has always been right in the fight for the welfare of the farmer, and was author of the bill setting aside $200,000,000 for farm loans. Marvin Jones is the type of public official who is worth while to his district and to the people of America.

The offer of the federal government to assist in charity during the coming winter will have a tendency to increase charity cases, especially transients who believe they will have easy picking over the country. They will not find it easy in Randall county, where it is decreed that only those in actual want will be assisted whether this assistance comes only from the county or whether the federal government assists. Years ago associated charities found that fully 90 percent of the beggars were professional and frauds. Today the depression has caused many families to be in want through no fault of their own. They will not beg. They would work if there was work to be had. But when there is no job, some one must feed them. The federal government is doing the correct thing in assisting communities with this great problem.

A lot of people in Randall county were sure sore when they read last week that Jim Ferguson charged that 679 illegal votes were cast in this county. You can imagine how people felt in those counties which Governor Sterling charged with casting illegal votes. No one denies that in every election there are illegal votes. But to charge wholesale illegal voting, such as Governor Sterling first charged in which he named every county carried by Mrs. Ferguson, and in rebuttal by the Fergusons of charging illegal voting in each and every county by Sterling, is foolish to the extreme, and mere child's play. The sensible voters have become disgusted with election contests and the foolish charges which are brought forth in these contests.

D. A. Davis of the McLean News is trying a new stunt—trying to get all his customers to dig out all of their worthless stocks and bonds, just to see what kind of a collection he can make in McLean. Not a bad idea. If all of the people could fully realize how foolish they were during flush times in investing their money in worthless securities perhaps they would in the future be more careful, buying government bonds which are secure at a low rate of interest, rather than investing in blue-sky projects, promoted only for the purpose of skinning the people. Wonder how much oil stock, and other kinds of stuff have been sold to Canyon people? Yes, we have plenty with which to start the collection.

What a difference of opinion! The Republicans say that President Hoover redeemed all party pledges and explained in a most satisfactory manner his administration in his Des Moines speech—the opening of his campaign. But the Democrats believe that he made a terrible mess of his explanation, which will leave him in a worse fix than he was before the western trip. It all depends upon the point of view in this political game.

Overconfidence is the worst thing in a political campaign. This is a warning which the national Democratic ticket is overlooking. It is being taken for granted too much that the Democrats will win. While it looks impossible for the Republicans, yet surprises in the past on sure bets should cause more concern in Democratic circles.

Slice green tomatoes one-quarter inch in thickness, place in porcelain-lined or granite vessel. Cover with two gallons of water in which the quart of lime has been dissolved. Let stand 24 hours. Remove, and rinse well through several cold waters to remove all lime sediment. Dissolve sugar in vinegar, add cinnamon sticks, and cloth containing nutmeg and ginger. Heat the vinegar and spices together and allow to infuse for one hour. Add slices of green tomato and cook rapidly until slices are glazed and syrup clings to the spoon. Fill sterilized jars with the slices, arranging cinnamon sticks attractively with the slices in the jar. Discard the cloth containing nutmeg and ginger. Process quarts ten minutes, pints seven minutes.

Roosevelts See World Series

"Whe-e-ew! Look at that ball go," seems to be just about what Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt and his son, James, are saying in the picture above, taken just after Babe Ruth smacked out a high one during the world series games at Chicago. But Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt, seated behind the governor, seems to find her menfolk much more interesting than the national game. The Democratic candidate for the presidency welcomed this chance to relax during his arduous country-wide campaign tour.

Otis Burk, '33, is to be an instructor in physical education, taking charge of freshman floor work while Alfred Duncan, '34, is to be secretary to the Big Coach.

Burk is best known to the student body as the shifty guard most disconcerting to rival basketballers on the varnished court. He will finish his career this session and will be missed on the basket quint this winter.

Al Duncan, who hails from Pampa, is one of the college beauties on the football field. He has two more years of eligibility and promises to make a great name for himself in West Texas football circles.

Kenneth Fink of Clarendon was a business caller in the city Monday. He was a member of the News staff for a month last year, and has many friends in Canyon.

FIRE!

WHERE IS THE FIRE?

SOME ONE'S HOME OR PROPERTY IS BEING DESTROYED AND IT MAY BE THAT SOME LIFE IS LOST.

IT MAY BE THE ENTIRE LIFE'S EARNINGS OF SOME ONE.

WHAT CAUSED THE FIRE?

IT MAY HAVE BEEN CAUSED BY NEGLIGENCE. IF SO, IT WOULD BE CLASSED AS CRIMINAL NEGLIGENCE.

It may have been accumulated rubbish that should have been cleaned up, or defective electric wiring done by some incompetent electrician who did not know his business, or did not have the proper material to make a safe job.

Light fuses burning out is evidence that there is a short somewhere which should be located and repaired. By no means should a coin or any other substitute be used for a fuse plug. If you use one, very likely you will start a fire.

Gas pipe lines should be inspected and tests made at every connection and valve to see that there are no leaks. This can be done with a small can of soap suds being applied with a small brush. Whenever there is a leak, a soap bubble will appear. It is safer to use gas rubber hose only one season because rubber hose deteriorates with age—some more than others. The best way is always the safest. It should be securely fastened to gas cock and stove spicket so there will be no chance for it to slip off or be knocked off.

All flues and vent pipes should be well inspected at least once a year to see that they are in safe condition.

A gas water heater should never be installed without a vent. If it is installed in a closet by no means should anything that would burn be stored in the same closet. In some cases clothing, brooms, floor mops, and papers have been in the same closets and caught fire.

Floor oil mops, oil rags and varnish rags should always be hung up and not thrown down in a close corner where spontaneous combustion can take place.

Matches should be kept in a metal box. Nothing but a metal container should be used at any time to take up ashes in. If clothes cleaning has to be done with gasoline, it should be by all means never be done in the house but should be done out of doors.

Oil or gasoline should never be used to start fires in stoves. It is very dangerous and often causes loss of life and property.

Eighty per cent of all fires are due to neglect and carelessness. This being Fire Prevention Week, let us in every way check all fire hazards to prevent fires.

The COUNTY The COLLEGE And CANYON
CHAMBER OF COMMERCE
FRED E. WORTHAM, Secretary

Today is the day for the opening session of the Merchant's Institute to be conducted by Mr. H. W. Stanley of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce.

Canyon Merchants should greatly appreciate the services of Mr. Stanley as offered to us by his organization and take advantage of hearing his lectures on vital business questions both today and tomorrow. He will speak at 2:30, 7:15 and 8:15 each day. The meetings will be held in the district court room.

Plan to attend all sessions. It's free to everyone and you will be welcome.

The many inquiries which reach the Chamber of Commerce each week are oftentimes very amusing. Quotations from two recent letters are given. A New York firm writes as follows: "One of my connections abroad wishes to obtain supplies of Carbon Black, from a producer who is not a member of the Carbon Black Export Association. As your chamber is located close to the producing center of Texas, you may be able to put me in touch with such a producer."

Another letter from a high school girl indicates that she wrote the letter very reluctantly:

"Will you please send me all the information you have about your city and county to a 13 year old girl whose teacher is making her learn all she can about Texas Geography."

"A Man's Own Home"
"To me it is always a strange circumstance that such a small group of responsible citizens in any given community feels any sense of responsibility toward their chamber of commerce, an organization which is quite as much their own as their private business. The great majority of citizens regard a chamber of commerce as an institution apart, like the house next door, which exists in some mysterious way, but whose upkeep and management has no claim upon them. Yet a chamber of commerce is a man's own house. It has just as full a claim upon his responsible support as his municipal government. As a citizen he has certain civic duties, and one of these is as clearly to support the chamber of commerce as it is to vote and pay taxes, or to pay his office rent. But this responsibility which fewer still feel when business is bad, when an adequately equipped chamber of commerce is most needed. The present need for adequate support for chambers of commerce is a thing which we cannot emphasize too strongly. The folly of diminishing support of such an organization in an emergency like the present is clear when we realize that a chamber of commerce is the best insurance business has in any community."—From a speech made before the National Chamber of Commerce, by Mr. L. F. Nix, vice president and general manager of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co.

During recent months two poems with the Palo Duro Canyon as their theme have been printed in these columns. Here's a third:

El Palo Duro
Here cradled in the rugged heart,
On the northwest Texas plain,
A great red dragon sleeping yawns
Nor shuts its jaws again.

It rests, content to slumber there
Imbedded in her breast;
Well may its beauty long compare
With all the scenic West.

A clear and silver sparkling stream
Winds down its rugged throat;
And swaying vine and flower entwined
Where trills the mocker's note.

Here long green-fondled lacy ferns
And velvet mosses grow,
By deep, and dark, and placid pools
That frame the sunset's glow.

Here once the whistling wild mustang
And fleet-footed deer could roam,
And Indian brave and stolid squaw
Built their rude wigwam home.

But deer and mustang now are gone
For time has wrought a change
No more the panted buck and squaw
Shall in these canyons range!

For summer cottages today
And pleasure boats are seen;
And little children laugh and play
Down in these canyons green.

This poem was written by Mrs. Jessica Morehead Young, and was recently published in Fletcher's Farming, Hondo, Texas.

Two Frocks Fill Your Informal Needs

A CRINKLED CREPE AND A VELVET AFTERNOON DRESS CAN FORM A PRACTICAL YET CHARMING BASE FOR YOUR WARDROBE

BY HARRIET

THE majority of wardrobes are built around two basic frocks. If these frocks are the kind that are at ease in enough different places you needn't worry because you can't appear on every scene in a new costume. The thing to do is to have every frock and every coat or hat you own so smart, so interesting, and so helpful that it really makes you look like a woman whom everyone will want to know.

If a dress isn't going to do something for you—deepen the color of your eyes, take away a few inches from your hips, show the slim grace that everyone is seeking—put it right back on the hanger from which you took it. The clothesline won't do you a bit of good if you can't get the right hang to it.

Crinkled crepes are one of the loveliest of the new fabrics. They are rough enough to wear well, and soft enough to be feminine. They come in all shades: dull greens or bright greens, wine reds, dark blues, browns and tans that run the range of a woodland forest, red that resembles circus day posters and cherries and strawberries, or a red that leans to rose, and, of course, in deep, dark blacks.

If you are buying a black dress, make sure that the black dye is good. Nothing spoils an effect as much as a black that shows gray.

Velvet, too, has grown softer and more luxurious looking this year. It is popular for afternoon frocks, tea dresses and evening gowns.

In fact, if you have a crinkled crepe afternoon frock, and a velvet afternoon frock in your wardrobe, they will see you through anything except a formal party. Since formal parties are few and far between on the majority of social calendars, it is much better to concentrate on your informal ensembles.

One crinkled crepe frock, which features the new high cowl neck and fitted bodice, uses a wide shoulder effect, which extends down the arm for a few inches. Sleeves that grow narrower every inch of the way are set in. They wrinkle around the wrists and are adorned with a row of fabric-covered buttons.

At left is a frock of the new dull velvet, excellent for afternoon and informal evening wear. Puffed sleeves narrow at the elbow into long, sophisticated cuffs; an ornament sets off the V-shaped neck, and a band of velvet forms a soft girdle. The bodice flairs at the knee line. A crinkled crepe gown featured by a new high cowl neck and fitted bodice is shown at left.

A small hat, little more than a cap, is worn with the frock.

THERE is a new dull velvet that is as practical as it is charming for afternoon and informal evening wear. Puffed sleeves, which are caught just below the elbow, where they narrow into long cuffs that are decidedly sophisticated, are in keeping with the new fashion mode. The V-shape neck is marked by a sparkling ornament, and a band of velvet makes a soft girdle that ties on the left side with two wide ends.

The bodice is fitted, but just above the knees it changes its mind and flairs.

This frock, too, comes in any color in which you prefer it. However, if you choose a color for your crepe dress, it is a fairly wise plan to use black for the velvet one. The new evening sandals of suede or crepe are worn with this gown.

The program is complete and is filled with good things that will interest every visitor. Pampa and Amarillo volitours will stage "40 and 8" wreck at 3:30 p. m. Saturday. A Dutch Lunch will be served, followed by a dance Saturday night.

Every Post Commander of the district is being urged to organize a group from his membership for the convention.

Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of the Texas Technological College at Lubbock, is the head line speaker for Sunday. Every Legionnaire of the District should hear this address, as it will deal with some economic questions of public interest.

EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

Bishop E. C. Seaman, of Amarillo, will visit the Canyon Episcopal Church, next Sunday, October 16th, and will preach at eight o'clock in the evening, and administer the rite of Confirmation.

Bishop Seaman is always glad to see as many of his Canyon friends as possible when he comes over, both at the church during the service hour, and afterwards for an hour of Christian fellowship at the Little House. He always has a particular message for young people, and all students and faculty members of the college are especially invited to hear him.

The Apostolic rite of "Laying on of Hands," better known as "Confirmation," is a very impressive service, only occurring occasionally, in this small church; and it is hoped that many friends will witness it.

Welton Winn Is Officer Farmers Business Assoc'n

The national board of directors of the Agricultural Business Association of America held a meeting in Levelland, Texas, on October 3rd, and elected Welton Winn, of Lubbock, as National secretary and treasurer. Mr. Winn was a citizen of Canyon for a number of years.

Mr. Winn's selection has met with wide spread approval among the membership and many others. His selection has been very pleasing and gratifying to T. W. Moss, the president and founder of this movement, he having worked with Mr. Winn many years ago, and states that Mr. Winn is authority on agricultural matters, having given a life study to agriculture and its problems. He has also given careful study to the marketing systems now in operation, and claims they need immediate revision.

It is the ultimate object of this organization to remove the price making on all agricultural products from the exchanges of the country, which is at present only a gamble, and place it in the hands of the producers of these crops which, in the last analysis, is the only solution of the producers' problems.

Headquarters of this organization will be established in Lubbock within the next thirty days.

Des Moines Greets Hoover

Here is the scene in downtown Des Moines as throngs of cheering citizens lined the streets to welcome President Hoover to the city where, later in the day, he made the speech opening his active campaign for re-election. Nearly 150,000 Iowans visited the corn belt capital to hear the chief executive speak.

"Westward Ho" With Hoover

Smiling an acknowledgment to the crowd's cheers, President Hoover, accompanied by Mrs. Hoover, is shown above as he started for Des Moines, Ia., to give the "fighting" speech designed to bring back to the Republican fold the revolting west, and to hold the east in line for the Hoover-Curtis ticket. The Des Moines speech likewise marked the launching of President Hoover's personal campaign for re-election.

CANYON TAKES CONFERENCE GAME FRIDAY FROM SILVERTON HIGH, SCORE SIX TO NOTHING

In their first conference tilt of the season, the Canyon High School Eagles turned the powerful Silver-ton Owls back to the tune of 6 to 0.

Canyon's lone counter came in the first quarter when the fleet-footed freshman, Sewell Cox ended a 45 yard march which was frequented by powerful line plunges and fast end runs by Thomas and S. Cox.

The game went scoreless the remainder of the game. Canyon had a superior team although the powerful Silver-ton line held in the pinches.

The Eagles registered 13 first downs against 6 for the visitors. The Eagles gained 216 yards and lost 12 yards from scrimmage, while the opponents gained 160 and lost 13.

Silver-ton's only threat to score was in the last quarter, when two completed passes and as many end runs placed the ball on Canyon's ten yard line, only to be killed there by the timekeeper's final report. Bang!

The playing of Tyson Cox, Owen Miller and Leonard Brasuel in the Eagles forward wall was one of the outstanding features of the game. F. Chitty and Fogerson were the outstanding linemen of the opponents. The line plunging of Thomas and Cox of the Eagles' backfield, plus the brilliant blocking of Stroud and Slack, was outstanding. Burson, the Owl quarterback, led the visitors' attack with his brilliant running, passing, punting and tackling.

The game was interrupted many times by injuries to both sides, although a man was never taken from the game because of injuries. The starting lineup:

Silver-ton: Rowell, le; V. Chitty, lt; F. Chitty, lg; Alexander, c; M. Brown, rg; Fogerson, rt; M. Brown, re; Burson, q; Dickenson, lb; Al-lard, rh; Hervey, fb.

Canyon: Cone, re; G. Brasuel, rt; O. Miller, rg; J. Black, c; T. Cox, lg; L. Brasuel, (c) lt; Elliston, le; Thomas, q; Stroud, rh; Slack, lb; S. Cox, fb.

Officials: Cox, (simmons); Cooper, (W. T.) Jameson (W. T.)

Senior Sponsor Entertains Class With Forty-Two

Mr. Terry, sponsor of the senior class, entertained the senior class Saturday night at 7:30 at the home of Mrs. Cash, with a progressive forty-two party.

Among the members of the faculty who were present were Miss Dickenson, Miss Foster, Miss Jordan, Miss Clark, Mr. Cox, Mr. Barksdale and Mr. Barker.

The decorations carried out the Halloween scheme. Delicious refreshments of ginger bread with whipped cream, candy, and tea were served. Some school songs were sung before the guests said, "Good-night!"

Report Cards Handled By The Student Council

The Student Council will have charge of the distribution of the report cards on Wednesday. A representative from each class will be stationed in the hall at the noon hour where each student may get his card from their respective representatives.

Mr. Terry has asked that they be signed and returned Thursday to the stand in the hall.

THE DIFFERENCE.

"The American's striking characteristic is his willingness to help. I have seen very rich men help their valets carry out baggage to a waiting car."

In these words has Prof. Carl Milles, member of the Royal Swedish Academy, touched the trait which sets the people of the United States apart from all other people of the civilized world. With Americans of all classes the instinct is to help, even the lowliest. With the aristocracy of other countries the instinct is to demand service, not render it.

There is no tradition here that manual labor is degrading, that for the master to aid the servant betrays a lack of culture and lowers the social standing of the master. We have no social taboo that ostracizes people because of "low birth." In the Old World to be born well is everything, in the new the important thing is to improve upon that which is given you.

This is an acquired democracy. The early settlers, few of whom belonged to the nobility of the mother lands, found the struggle for existence too harsh to stand on ceremony. Their descendants wrote equality into the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution. In a volunteer army the democratic tradition prevails over the military hierarchy. Division of the people into rigid classifications is further made impossible here by the disappearance of the old landed aristocracy and rise of a new aristocracy of commerce and industry from the ranks of labor and the middle class.

"I like mathematics, when it isn't over my head."

"Yeah, that's just the way I feel about pigeons."—Fetter Clippings.

Eagle Squad Is Given Steak Fry By Purple Peps

The Pep Squad entertained the victorious Eagles with a steak fry at Hurst's fishing grounds Friday evening after the game.

About eighty-five boys and girls left the high school at 6:15 with Mr. Carruth, Miss Dickenson, Miss Brasuel, Mr. Barksdale and Mr. Terry as chaperones.

When they reached the grounds, fires were lighted and the steak fried. Pickles, buns, mustard potato chips, marshmallows, and apples were served with the steak.

Running games were played until about eight-thirty when every one left and went to the Buffalo-Wayland game.

Coach Barksdale, the football coach, is also a new member of the Canyon High School faculty.

Coach Barksdale received his degree from Baylor University in 1929. While attending school at Baylor, he was a member of Sigma Delta Pi, a Spanish fraternity. His athletic records show that he lettered two years in football, three years in basketball, and two years in track. He also became captain of the Baylor University basketball team. While attending school he had the honor of being a member of the Baylor Chamber of Commerce.

His first year out of Baylor he became a teacher and assistant coach in Denton High School. After leaving Denton he became head coach at Floydada where he remained two years. He is now the head of the athletic department at Canyon High School and is teaching mathematics and physical education.

Mrs. Cleatice Crump, the head of the speech arts department of the Canyon High School is a new member to the high school faculty.

Mrs. Crump received her B. A. degree at W. T. S. T. C. in the year, 1929. While in college, she was a member of the Panhandle Players, Children's Theater, and the Dramatic Club. She appeared in plays for all of these clubs during her four years in college. In her senior year she appeared in the senior play and also gave a senior recital which consisted of a play. The following year Mrs. Crump taught public speaking in Canadian High School.

Eagles Meet Class A. Team At Borger Fri.

Next Friday, Oct. 14, the Canyon Eagles will trek over to Borger to show the Borger High Gridsters the ware of the Eagles. This will be the third game of the current season for the Eagles. They have won two games in as many starts. Their victims were Vega and Silver-ton.

Borger is in "Class A." competition this year. They played to a scoreless tie with Spearman and fell before the Pampa Harvesters 19 to 0.

The Eagles have a green team to send against a "Class A" team of 31 lettermen.

Coach Barksdale, a former Baylor University gridster, will oppose one of his ancient rivals in Noble Atkins, the Borger tutor, who is a former Texas Christian University star. Atkins was an all-Southwestern conference pivot man at T. C. U.

The Eagles, accompanied by the pep squad and some faculty members, will go from the school to the game.

Junior Class Sponsored Pie Supper Thurs.

A pie supper, sponsored by the junior class, was given at the high school Thursday evening. George Schmitz acted as the auctioneer. The highest bid made was one dollar, which went on the pie of Athalie Overton. A pleasant evening was spent by all of the students and teachers who attended.

Dr. R. A. Neblett Talks To Public School Faculty

Dr. R. A. Neblett gave a very interesting and instructive talk to the faculty of the elementary school last week at the regular faculty meeting. Dr. Neblett emphasized the importance of guarding the health of the student in the school and explained how the morning inspections should be made.

"The danger of common colds and communicable diseases are much greater than most people think, but can be controlled to a large degree by proper precautions," Dr. Neblett said.

The lecture given by Dr. Neblett was the first of a series of meetings that are to be held on this subject.

Athletic Club

The athletic club, sponsored by Miss Murrell, met Tuesday, during the extra activity period. Irene Thompson, president opened the meeting with a discussion of the plans of the club for the coming year. The members elected Mable Schmitz song leader, and Kathryn Robinson, reporter. EDITORIAL

Have you seen all these dignified seniors around Canyon High School? They certainly do look important, or at least as if they feel their importance. I've heard rumors that they expect to be the best senior class in the history of the school. Well, they all say that. We'll just wait and see.

What about the juniors? I've been told that they think they put a big one over at the pie supper. They announce in a rather secretive way that they are surely working hard and putting the junior class along this year, but the seniors just laugh and say, "Huh! You should have seen us last year."

Those last year freshmen have finally reached the station of sophomores! And they are, oh, so worldly wise. It's really surprising the extent of knowledge they have. They are doing some fine work this year. Stay right in there, sophs! It won't be long before you are seniors and leading the school.

Have you noticed our "Fish?" We certainly have a fine crop this year, and work? Did you see how they rustled in that Loyalty Campaign? If those upper classmen don't look out, they will find the freshmen stepping right up and running things their own way.

Bufs Take Game From Wayland on Friday Night 52-0

Bewildering the Wayland Jackrabbits with a variety of football tricks, the Buffaloes came out on the top-heavy end of a 52-0 score in their Friday night tilt with the South Plains squad.

The Buffaloes got off to a somewhat loggy start and at the end of the half had only scored a pair and one extra point when the gun stopped the wrangle. Al Duncan, Buff guard, blocked a Wayland punt early in the first quarter and "Cow" Williams made the second counter by way of a pair of lusty smashes for twenty-five and eight yards.

In the second quarter the Jacks made their only bid when they marched from their thirty yard line to the Buffs twenty-eight. However, they lost their chances when Captain Bill McClendon smeared one of their passes, and Davis and Williams slashed their way to the Jackrabbits twenty-five yard line as the half ended with score 13-0 for the home team.

It was in the second half of the slaughter that the Burtonites started their steam roller. Williams at half hit the Wayland line where it hurt the most and Colvin showed the customers some of the prettiest shifting seen in some time. Burk, Davis, Clark and Brotherton as well as Jack Spence each had their turn at smashing the line or circling the ends for spectacular gains. In the second frame of the battle Williams accounted for two touchdowns, and Colvin, Davis, Clark, and Brotherton each marked up a counter.

Coach "Sad Sam" gave practically every hand a chance at the Jackrabbits and made numerous substitutions. Every man jack of them turned in a good game and a fine time was had by all at the expense of the Wayland eleven. However, all the glory of the game should not go to the Buffaloes, since the Jackrabbits had a few brilliant stars of their own making. Williams and Pierce at half, and Durham at full, and Winters at left end turned in a few beautiful plays to their own glory. Durham of the visitors gave the spectators a thrill on numerous occasions and rated from the sidelines as their best bet.

All in all, everyone had a good time except the Jackrabbits and the spectators who got their fill of carnage long before the final gun, and here is the final score and the starting line-up:

Bufs	Jackrabbits
Stowe	Winters

Britons to Defy Mount Everest's Perils In New Attempt to Reach Peak

WITHIN the next several months a little group of Englishmen will try to climb to the "top of the world," the summit of Mt. Everest in the Himalayas, in the fourth of a series of attempts in which 13 men have already lost their lives.

In the conquering of Everest, regarded by many as a more glorious achievement than the discovery of the Poles, these men must face tremendous odds. It has not been lack of courage or ingenuity, but rather the tremendous barrier of Nature, which has kept Everest's peak, 29,141 feet high, free of human invasion. A description of some of these obstacles will explain why, 11 years ago, no man had ever been known to approach within 50 miles of the mountain's crest.

The east side of Everest is guarded by precipices 10,000 feet high. On the south side are vast quicksands, where many men who have ventured have been lost. On the western side climbers are balked by 15,000-foot precipices, bearing at one point great overhanging glaciers which occasionally break off and fall with a force that would crush an army. On the north side are more vast vertical cliffs. But on Everest's northeastern slope, there is a "knife-edge" track which leads to the summit. It is on this path that all Everest-climbing expeditions since 1921 have concentrated their efforts.

IN 1922, 1924 and 1925 British expeditions set out to scale the mountain. But the terrible blizzards and sandstorms which frequently sweep the mountain slopes, the bitter cold and the rarefied upper atmosphere turned each group back—in one case, when they were but 1000 feet from the summit.

The thin air has proven the greatest foe of the expeditions. It is said that the effect on a man of one step taken near Everest's summit is equivalent to that of a hundred-yard dash at sea level. And the rarefied air affects not only the body. It also depresses and discourages the climber, and deadens the will to push ahead. Climbers nearing Everest's top suffer from parched throats, palpitating hearts, mountain sickness and fever—the latter caused by the sun's ultra-violet rays.

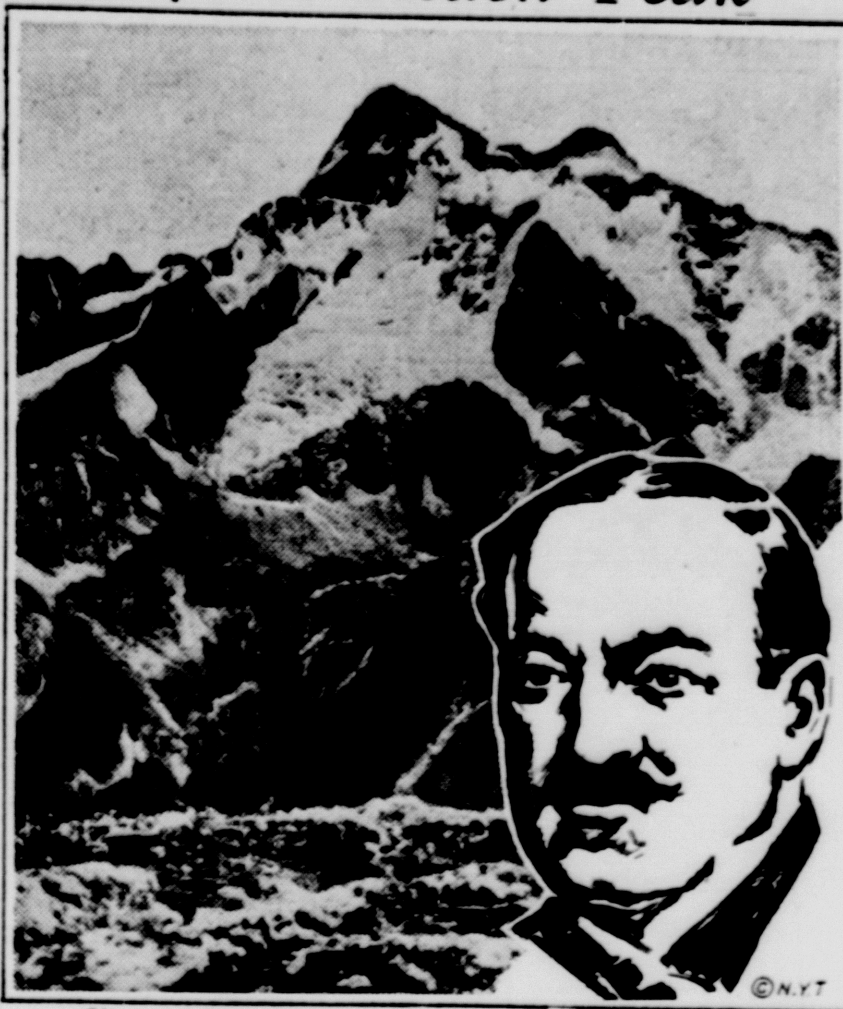

The first organized group to visit Everest was one led by Col. C. K. Howard-Bury in 1921. The object of this expedition was to learn the best way to tackle the mountain, which they found to be the northeastern ridge.

The rough-hewn beauty and majesty of Mount Everest, the 29,141-foot giant of the Himalayan range, which has defied all efforts of men to reach its summit, is shown in the above photograph. In the inset is Brig-Gen. C. G. Bruce who led the 1922 and 1924 British expeditions to scale Everest, both of which ended in tragedy.

THE Second Expedition, one in 1922 headed by Brig-Gen. C. G. Bruce, made three attempts to reach the summit. The falling of night when G. H. Leigh-Mallory and E. F. Norton, in the first attempt, were a little over 2000 feet from Everest's peak compelled them to retrace their steps.

The second try, a few days later, failed when exhaustion and hunger stopped General Bruce and G. I. Finch about 1900 feet from their goal. The third attempt ended tragically. When the climbers and porters were 6000 feet from the top, an avalanche swept down on them, carrying seven porters to their deaths. Then came the ill-fated 1924 expedition. Captained again by Bruce, the little band of men had reached the 27,000-foot level. Everest's summit was to be their next jump. Mallory and A. C. Irvine, who were in the best shape of all the men, undertook the last ascent.

The camp observer, through a telescope, saw them dragging themselves slowly upwards against the fearful, icy winds that blow around Everest. When they were about 600 feet from the peak, a mist clouded them from sight. That was the last ever seen of Irvine and Mallory. Whether they fell exhausted before reaching their goal, or whether they attained the summit and then fell, nobody has ever known.

To learn the fate of these two men is one of the aims of the 1933 campaign to conquer the sacred Himalayan mountain which has mocked the efforts of men for centuries.

CANYON CITY CLUB NEWS

If the scores made in the Club's tournament are an indication, the course at the Club is more difficult than the courses of other towns comprising the Wheat Belt Golf League. Averages covering play for the past four weeks, with the exception of one or two players, are higher than the scores made during the league season.

Ross Craig, Dan Sanders and T. V. Reeves, tied for first place in the fourth handicap tournament held last Sunday; their net scores were 75s; Frank Shotwell was fourth with a 76; H. W. Hartman and F. E. Savage turned in 77s to tie for 5th place; Lee Foster delivered a 78; T. E. Maxwell and Felix Neff 80s; Wesley Kleinschmidt 81; F. P. Ferrell and O. W. Gano, 83s; Bill Bryant 86; Ed Mickel and R. A. Terrill 87s; Bill Smith and J. Cole 88s; and Dr. Saddoris a 90. The fifth tournament will be held next Sunday at 1:30 o'clock p. m.

In the driving contest held at the Club Sunday, Bill Bryant won first place in the upper bracket and Wesley Kleinschmidt won first in the second bracket.

Twenty-one players took part in the tournament and driving contest held at the Club Sunday. The contest committee hopes there will be more entries next Sunday as it is the last tournament of a series of five to be held at the Club, unless the players vote to continue them.

The Child's First Books

No one who knows and loves children can fail to appreciate the influence that good books have upon the unfolding mind, or that vile or coarse books also have. The great problem is to create a taste for the good so strong and vital as to destroy the influence of the bad. This may be done by familiarizing the child with the best writers, both ancient and modern and showing him the difference between real literature and space writing.

Listed below are some of the good books which we keep on our children's book shelves, which we invite you to examine. They are well illustrated.

THE JUNGLE BOOK by Rudyard Kipling

A wonderful story of life in the jungle centering about the adventures of Mowgli, a child reared in the jungle wolf pack. Grades 4-6. $2.25.

NEW STORIES TO TELL TO CHILDREN by Sara Cone Bryant

An excellent book for parents and teachers and contains a number of selected and adapted stories. Grades 3-5. $1.80.

HEIDI by Joanna Spyri

A charming story of a little Swiss girl's life in the mountains and later in a German city. 90c.

MONI, THE GOAT BOY by the same author is also good.

80c.

THE NURNBERG STOVE and A DOG OF FLANDERS by Louise De La Mamee

Both books are children's classics for fourth and fifth grades. The dog of Flanders is one of the best dog stories ever written. 35c each.

ROBINSON CRUSOE by Daniel Defoe

The greatest story of adventure ever written. 60c.

SWISS FAMILY ROBINSON by J. R. Wyss

Not as good as Robinson Crusoe, but often better liked by children, probably because children occupy a prominent place in the story. $1.25.

ARABIAN KNIGHTS

Supplies the Oriental element, which is not found in other fairy tales thus far read. $1.25.

THE DUTCH TWINS by Lucy Fitch Perkins

Also The Belgian Twins, The Irish Twins, The Scotch Twins, The French Twins, The Eskimo Twins, and other Twins books. Each pair of twins forms the basis of a story illustrating life in different countries, each story making a separate volume. $1.00 each.

REBECCA OF SUNNYBROOK FARM by K. D. Wiggin

A story of a warmhearted, impulsive Rebecca Randall's life at Sunnybrook farm with her stern Aunt Miranda, and of her later boarding school days. A fine portrayal of the sensibilities of a young girl. 75c.

UNCLE REMUS by Joel Chandler Harris

Adventures of Brer Rabbit and sly Brer Fox, just as Uncle Remus told them to the "little boy." Grades 5-7. $2.

ALICE IN WONDERLAND by Lewis Carroll

The most delightful of all nonsense books. A classic. Grades 4-6. $1.35.

LION AND TIGER STORIES

Retold from St. Nicholas Magazine for children. $1.25.

LITTLE FOLKS HANDY BOOK by Beard, Lina & Beard

Simple handicraft using empty spools, clothespins, kindling wood, encouraging resourcefulness and simplicity in play. Grades 1-3. $1.15.

Bufs Mix With Hill Billies at Brownwood Fri.

Following the two opening games of the 1932 grid season, the first being dropped to Simmons University 6-0 on a rain-soaked gridiron, Sept. 23, and the other with Wayland College last Friday night when the Bufs completely wrecked the Jackrabbits machine to the tune of 52-0, the Buffaloes will now take to the road for two games.

Next Friday night the Herd will be guests of the Daniel Baker Hill Billies in Brownwood, and the following Thursday night, Oct. 20, the Bufs will storm the stronghold of the McMurray Indians in Abilene.

While the Buff-Wayland game was a splendid victory for the Bufs, and brought to light some good men that might not have been discovered had all games been tight, it was not without its price. "Gene" Lovelace of Farwell suffered a dislocated knee.

Lovelace playing his first year with the Bufs, was attracting a great deal of favorable comment as a line man. It will probably be three weeks before he will be able to resume his duties as guardian of the left sector of the line.

The next game for the Buffaloes will be the night of Oct. 28, when Abilene Christian College comes to Canyon as the feature attraction of Dads night.

Women's Athletics Being Reorganized

Reorganized, the Women's Athletic Association will have as its aim the inclusion of as many of the female portion of the student body within its influence as is possible. Many experiments are to be made, the success of which depends solely upon the response accorded.

Heretofore, all athletics have been under the control of a central organization, but this year the entire association is to be divided into a number of clubs, each having as its purpose specialization in that specific phase of athletics for which it is designated.

Clubs will sponsor, individually, basketball, baseball, volleyball, soccer, hockey, and speedball. Other clubs will be organized for those interested in tennis, golf, swimming, archery, target practice, and outtings. A tentative suggestion has been made concerning a dance club. Definite organization of this club, however, depends largely on the response of the advanced dancing class and the women at large. Persons may belong to two clubs each quarter.

A mass meeting for segregation of clubs is being sponsored by the W. A. A. to be held Wednesday afternoon at four thirty in the Women's Gym.

The Palm or the Razzberry Awaits Certain Young Footballers Who Aspire to Carry on for Schwartz, Booth and Other Grid Greats of 1931

BY PHILIP MARTIN

FAME—or ignominy; glory—or a shower of humiliating jeers from critical grandstands. That's what awaits several young men who are wearing football togs in various American colleges this year, trying to take up where great stars of last year left off.

Graduations riddled college lines and backfields last year as usual. Some outstanding stars that substituted the sheepskin for the pigskin were Darby Schwartz of Notre Dame; Dal Marvill and Jack Riley of Northwestern; Albie Booth, Yale; Barry Wood, Harvard; Erny Pinckert and Johnny Baker, Southern California; Jerry Dalrymple, Tulane; Bill McDuffee and Ralph Hewitt, Columbia; Bill Bell, Ohio State; Morrison, Michigan; the entire backfield, plus three replacements, of Dartmouth and others of similar caliber.

Easy to replace? No, Gus, they aren't! These men were natural football players, not the common garden variety. And the natural kind do not flourish in abundance. It's a good guess that numerous coaches this year will do some heavy praying that their fill-in selections will measure up.

LET'S single out some of the more important lads who'll be in the spotlight and "on the spot" at one and the same time this year.

Mike Koken of Notre Dame pops first to mind. And his is an assignment that would chill any gridders' spine. He has to do a creditable job of replacing "Marchy" Schwartz, who made history in his grid career. But Coach "Hunk" Anderson has plenty of faith in Mike to keep up his end.

Bill Riley may soften the grief of Dick Hanley, Northwestern's mentor, at the loss last year of Jack Riley, Bill's big brother. And Ken Zuber, a 190-pound sophomore, is a likely bet to fill Dal Marvill's moccasins.

Those arch rivals, "Lit" Albie Booth of Yale and Barry Wood of dead old Hahvahd, are somewhat tougher to replace. Coach Mal Stevens is counting on Bob Lassiter, who alternated with Booth last year, to come through for Eli. Stanton Whitney and James Leonard will probably scrap for Wood's berth.

CAL CLEMENS, 18-year-old back, and Aaron Rosenberg, giant running guard of last year, may keep Coach Howard Jones of Southern California from pining away over the loss of Pinckert and Baker. And Coach Tex Cox of Tulane has some first-class material in Hill, Westfeldt, Simons and Boasberg to develop a couple of wingmen the equal of Dalrymple and Haynes.

Pity poor Dartmouth! The first string backfield is gone. And, besides, three of his replacements backfield have graduated. That leaves Coach Jack Cannell with more worries than Solomon had wives.

Old "Pop" Warner at Stanford is having some trouble replacing his stellar tackle, Red Hand, this year. But it is said that he'll have just as colorful a player "on the spot" in George Grey.

All of which is by way of saying that graduations are a great big nuisance.
